Law, Owners
Stumbling Block
To TV AccessBy H.J. ANDERSON and DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writers

Ron Kurtenbach wants the right to appear on cable television and complain about telephone service.

That's freedom of expression, he figures, when someone can talk about telephones on a TV station owned by Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph.

Such public access to programs will be required by the Federal Communications Commission anyway, Kurtenbach said. In fact, FCC regulations require all cable companies, as dues for picking up broadcast signals to send through their cables, to provide a whole public access channel by 1977.

That means anybody then may go on television to talk politics, twirl a baton, play the kazoo, tell Swedish-dialect stories or do anything they choose, except utter obscenities or plug a product.

Access Wanted Sooner

Kurtenbach and other members of Media Access Project (MAP) want Lincoln's cable company, TV-Transmission Inc., to open access sooner as a show of good will.

MAP, an informal group of interested citizens, went to the City Council Sept. 30 to explain their request. If nothing else, members said, immediate access should be available from a new company, should TV-Transmission sell out before 1977.

The City Council enfranchises TV-Transmission. Cable companies need a local franchise and an FCC certificate to operate.

TV-Transmission has 380 miles of cable and 34,816 connections in and around 13 southeast Nebraska cities. That includes Lincoln, where there are more than 23,000 hook-ups at 17,009 locations, as of Sept. 30.

Cable connections are intended to improve a commercial station's reception and to offer alternative programming, such as old movies, weather, news and coverage of local events.

Access Too Expensive

TV-Transmission attorney J. Taylor Greer told MAP and the council that the company cannot provide public access because it is too expensive.

It would mean adding channels, he said.

Also, locally-produced material is always more expensive than pre-packaged programming. A 1974 study by a cable trade group says "cablecasting rarely pays its own way."

Research by Column A reporters indicates a big reason for holding back on public access, besides the fact it's not legally required, is the company's intention to sell very soon. MAP is talking to a lame duck television company.

Well-placed sources in TV-Transmission said the company is "just doing enough to get by, biding their time."

Scouting Around

Greer said LT&T, for the past two years, has been scouting around for possible buyers, in case the company loses its appeal to the FCC to stay business.

The FCC in 1970 ordered all telephone companies that own cable TV operations to sell them by 1974. LT&T appealed, and a hearing is expected in December.

But a local stock broker said LT&T intends to sell before the appeal is decided, hoping for a better price than it would get when other companies knew LT&T had to sell.

John Saeman, of cable systems owner Daniels and Associates in Denver, Colo., said LT&T has indicated it's "interested in proceeding to see if a deal can be put together."

TV-Transmission, according to its annual report for calendar year 1974, increased its operating revenues by 30% over 1972, from $1 million to $1.3 million.

After expenses, TV-Transmission made a cash profit of $189,000, but ended up with a net loss of $448,000 after depreciation charges. That's money set aside from earnings to replace machinery as it wears out.

Thought Best Sized

Column A reporters also found that TV-Transmission is considered by one national company to be the best sized network at this time. Monroe M. Rifkin, president of American Television and Communications Corp., said in an August, 1974, Investment Dealers' Digest article that his company likes cable systems in markets below the top 30.

Lincoln is in the 93rd largest market area.

The issue of money aside, MAP also charged that TV-Transmission now allows access to TV time on a selective basis. Company General Manager Fred Schroeder said the company televised five candidate forums for the League of Women Voters.

In mid-October, MAP members asked Schroeder if TV-Transmission would do programs on the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation, Lincoln Film Co-Op, Free Theater and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Women's Action Group.

Nobody Asked

Two days later, when a Column A reporter asked if the company would consider televising programs for groups other than the League of Women Voters, Schroeder said, "To my knowledge, nobody has requested anything like that."

A side issue raised by MAP's inquiries has been the city's role in regulating the local cable company.

According to the franchise, the city should get 3% of the company's "gross receipts" quarterly from Lincolntel. TV-Transmission attorney Greer said he interprets that to mean 3% of the money from monthly cable TV charges. Assistant City Atty. Bill Austin said he interprets that to include advertising revenue, as well.

Pat Scott, of the Cable Television Information Center in Washington, D.C., said although there's no FCC regulation on the 3% revenue, "general practice across the country has been to use it as a resource to finance a local, supervisory board, not as a source of revenue for the city." TV-Transmission payments which go to the city general fund — amounted to $16,847 in 1973 and totalled $22,340 in the city's fiscal year ending Aug. 31.

The franchise says the company must get City Council approval before filing any appeals of FCC rules. TV-Transmission approached the City Council March 30, 1970, asking the city to join it and LT&T in an appeal on the divestiture order to the U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, Mo.

The city declined to join the suit, but Greer said, "obviously gave its approval."

There's a question whether approval 3 years earlier to appeal to a U.S. court would apply to a 1973 appeal to the FCC on the same divestiture rule to the FCC.

Convicts Free 5 Hostages

DUTCH MOUNTED POLICEMEN . . . patrol in front of Scheveningen Prison.

Dutch Bargaining
For Release Of 17

The Hague (UPI) — Two Arab and two Dutch convicts who took over the Scheveningen Prison chapel at gunpoint released five of their hostages Sunday, but kept 17 others and demanded that authorities hand over another Arab prisoner.

Bargaining for the release of the remaining hostages — taken prisoner during an assault on the chapel during a Roman Catholic mass Saturday — went on late into the night in Arabic, Dutch, and English without an apparent breakthrough. One of the two Arabs has been convicted for an airplane hijacking along with the third Arab they want authorities to surrender.

Interior Minister Wilhelm de Gaay Fortman said allowing the prisoners to leave the country "is not at issue in the contacts and I can hardly envisage the possibility of negotiations about it."

said the situation was "very vague."

"The gunmen are still demanding only the fifth convict and we, for our side, are still demanding the release of the women and children," he said.

The spokesman said the negotiations were being conducted in English, Dutch and Arabic by turns. Dutch officials operating from a control center set up in another part of the prison took turns talking to the convicts.

Authorities said the chapel was the ground floor of a 2-year-old block attached to the older part of the prison. They said it was fully heated, and that the hostages were suffering no inconvenience.

"We have now made two deliveries of food, drinks and cigarettes," the spokesman said.

Hijacker

Among the four gunmen were Adnan Ahmad Nuri, convicted of hijacking a British Airways VC10 jet airliner last March on a flight from Beirut to London. The plane was diverted to Amsterdam and set on fire after 102 passengers were released.

With Nuri were two Dutchmen, Daan Denie and Jan Brouwers, jailed for holding a farm family hostage for 30 hours last year, and a 22-year-old Algerian, Mohammed Koudache, who was jailed for robbery.

The four demanded that police bring them Sami Hussein Tamimah, 22, who was sentenced to five years in jail along with Nuri. Tamimah has been receiving hospital treatment following a hunger strike.

Police sent the prisoners and their hostages candies, lemonade, coffee, paper napkins, three decks of playing cards and new batteries for the gunmen's walkie talkies.

Some Released

Twenty-two hostages were seized Saturday. Early Sunday, the convicts released a 49-year-old woman, her 9-year-old daughter and a 73-year-old man. The woman and the child left the red brick prison compound, but the man remained behind because his daughter, son-in-law and grandchild were still captives, police said.

Late Sunday, the captors freed two sisters, Ankie Korsen, 16, and Jose, 10. The girls' parents were among the 17 still held, along with a 11-year-old boy, three women, a priest, a church organist, two prison guards and nine male members of a visiting church choir.

Dutch authorities, negotiating by walkie-talkie radios, said they were insisting on the release of all the captured women and children before handing over the fifth convict.

Nixon Faces New Tests

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Sophisticated tests will be performed on former President Richard M. Nixon this week to determine if new clots are forming in his leg — a condition that would probably require surgery, his physician said Sunday.

Even if surgery on the phlebitis-ridden leg is ruled out, Nixon will require close medical supervision for many months, said a consulting doctor. This may prohibit Nixon from testifying at the Watergate cover-up trial.

Dr. John C. Lungren, Nixon's physician since 1952, said that if surgery is not necessary to operate on the deep veinous system of the former president's left leg, which was said to be "99 and 44-100 per cent clotted," Nixon can probably leave the hospital at the end of the week.

"We don't propose to do anything further unless we have indications of active clotting," Lungren said at a news conference. "Then we would probably go to surgery."

He said Nixon was now responding to hospital treatment and was not in "any undue pain." He said Nixon is no longer bleeding from the gums as a side effect to his anticoagulation treatment.

Nixon has been subpoenaed by both the defense and prosecution in the Watergate trial in Washington, D.C., of five former political associates.

Although Lungren refused to discuss the political or legal consequences of Nixon's health, he said in reply to a question:

"Mr. Nixon at some point will be available for court proceedings. I cannot say when. Over the long haul I'm sure he'll be available."

The Watergate special prosecutor's office said it will have no comment on the latest developments.

Dr. Wiley Barker, a consultant in the case, said the former president has "unquestionable clots in several veins of the left leg."

Nixon will have to undergo "close medical supervision for a protracted length of time, and by protracted length of time I mean many months," said Barker, of the UCLA medical school.

Nixon, 61, was admitted to Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach last Wednesday after Lungren found that the oral an-ticoagulant he was taking at his San Clemente estate was not working satisfactorily. He had been released from the hospital Oct. 4 after 12 days of tests and treatment for the phlebitis, a vein inflammation.

Among the elaborate tests planned for this week is a radioactive isotope examination to determine whether active clotting is occurring.

Dr. Scott Driscoll, another consulting physician who performed a venogram on Nixon Wednesday night, said the test where iodine dye is injected into the foot showed a clot in the deep venous system of the left calf and another one in the superficial system of the lower portion of the leg.

"The deep venous system is 99 and 44-100 per cent clotted," Driscoll said. But he said there is a small superficial vein that is carrying blood to the major vein from the former chief executive's lower extremities.

Lungren said Nixon was not, as had been previously speculated, one of a class of patients who simply do not respond to anticoagulation therapy. But he said he did not know why the oral medication wasn't doing its job properly.

White Supported In Poll By Bar

By The Associated Press

A poll of Nebraska lawyers show they feel the Chief Justice of the Nebraska Supreme Court, and two other judges on the high court who face the voters in November, should be retained in office.

The poll was conducted by the Nebraska State Bar Association. It centered on the Supreme Court selections and 20 other judges who voters will retain or turn out of office next month.

By a better than three-to-one margin, lawyers called for retention of Paul W. White of Lincoln as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. Of 1,243 lawyers who returned ballots, 933 said he should be retained while 310 said he should not.

Judge Hale McCown of Beatrice had 65 approving votes in the poll, and only three opposing his retention. Judge Lawrence M. Clinton of Sidney received 133 responses favoring his retention, and nine opposing it.

The only judge who faced substantial opposition in the poll was Theodore L. Richling of the Douglas County District Court.

Of 473 ballots returned, 260 lawyers said Richling should not continue in office, while 213 said he should be retained on the bench.

Richling ran into trouble in a recent poll conducted by the Omaha Bar Association. In that sampling, 144 lawyers said he should not be retained. Another 89 lawyers said he was qualified and 27 said he was outstanding.

A spokesman for the Nebraska State Bar Association noted only active members of the association were queried for the poll. He added that a lawyer was expected to comment only on the judges he knew personally or through courtroom experience.

The lawyers responded to a single question: "Does this candidate have the integrity, temperament and professional competence to remain as judge?"

Lawyers polled voted 248-14 for retention of Lancaster County District Judge William C. Hastings of Lincoln.

In Omaha, lawyers expressed approval for retaining these judges in the Douglas County district court by the following margins:

Donald J. Hamilton, 448-23; James A. Buckley, 462-11; Samuel P. Caniglia, 455-24; Rudolph Tesar 372-93.

Outstate, lawyers voted to retain district court judges by the following margins:

Howard Kanouff of Wahoo, 35-0; Orville Coady of Hembrown, 26-2; Fred Irons of Hastings, 51-2; Hugh Stuart of North Platte, 32-10; William Rist of Beatrice, 19-5; C. Thomas White of Columbus, 41-2.

Government Employees
Can Be More Political

By BOB GUENTHER

Star Staff Writer

The new federal Campaign Spending Reform Act has lifted some of the restrictions on government employees' right to participate in election campaigns.

State and local government employees in federally-financed programs may now participate actively in partisan political campaigns, public employee officials have indicated.

The new law, signed Oct. 15 by President Gerald Ford, relaxes a number of provisions in the Hatch Act, according to a representative of a Nebraska public employees group. In the past, the Hatch Act has stirred controversy and confusion over what exactly an employee can do in an election.

Forbids Running

However, the new law still forbids employees in federally-funded programs to run for elective office and prevents elected officials from coercing employees into working in a campaign.

Roger Schulz, executive director of the Nebraska Association of Public Employees (NAPE), reported the Campaign Spending Reform Act had revised some Hatch Act provisions. An aide to Sen. Carl Curtis confirmed that the law has loosened up some restrictions, but said the changes in no way applied to federal civil service employees.

State Personnel Department officials said they have heard talk about changes in the Hatch Act relating to state and local employees. However, they said they have received no official communication about it.

"The Hatch Act has been around a long time," one official said. "If they've changed it, I'll believe it when I see it."

Schulz said NAPE welcomes the change.

In the past, he said, the Hatch Act "had state employees completely frightened."

He said, "The change was long overdue. The Hatch Act reduced many employees to second-class citizens. It's about time they are allowed the rights of a first-class citizen."

Lobbied For Changes

Schulz said the changes were lobbied for in Congress by the Association of Government Employees, NAPE's national affiliate.

There is no state version of the Hatch Act in Nebraska statutes, he said.

Kissinger: U.S.-Soviet Arms Treaty Possible

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger said Sunday there is a reasonable chance of an agreement next year between the United States and the Soviet Union to limit offensive nuclear weapons.

"We are aiming for an agreement during 1975," the secretary of state said. He spoke to newsmen on a flight to India after three days of talks in Moscow with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The two sides issued a communique after Kissinger left

Moscow that noted steady improvement in relations between the countries, and Pravda, the Soviet Communist party organ, said: "The positive turn which came about in Soviet-American relations is of tremendous significance for the destinies of the whole world."

Kissinger received a correct reception as he arrived to begin a reconciliation mission to India. But Prime Minister Indira Gandhi demonstrated the need for mending fences with a published comment blaming

Washington solely for the three years of estrangement. "It is really for them to think this out," she said.

On prospects for a U.S.-Soviet nuclear treaty, a senior American official said a treaty might even be ready next summer when Brezhnev visits Washington. The governments will issue new instructions to arms negotiators in Geneva within a month of the Nov. 23-24 summit meeting between Brezhnev and President Ford near Vladivostok, the official said.

The official said the Communist party's ruling Politburo obviously met early Saturday and that afterward Brezhnev negotiated on strategic weapons with more precision.

The official described the Kissinger-Brezhnev negotiations as an attempt to draw up a balance sheet as well as set a ceiling on the total number of nuclear weapons.

While he pointed out there remain pitfalls on the road to a treaty, the official's over-all assessment of Kissinger's

Moscow sessions was positive. Newsmen were told the two sides are closer than ever before to guidelines on a new 10-year treaty to limit missiles, warheads and launchers.

Kissinger said he thinks his meetings in Moscow "laid a good basis for the (Vladivostok) summit," which he said should "make a useful contribution" to better U.S.-Soviet relations.

Informed sources said, however, that Brezhnev reacted angrily to release by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., of letters outlining Soviet concessions on the emigration of Jews.

Brezhnev was said to feel wounded because release of the letters made Moscow appear to be knuckling under to U.S. pressure. About 1,200 Jews are leaving the Soviet Union every month, around 60 per cent fewer than in 1973. The concessions to Jackson and other members of Congress cleared the way for trade and tax credits for Moscow, but it is not clear whether the rate of emigration will pick up.

Alger's Ex-Wife And Man Slain

DALLAS (AP) — The ex-wife of former Rep. Bruce Alger and a male companion were shot to death early Sunday at the man's apartment, police said.

Officers said a 65-year-old man was taken into custody within minutes of the slaying after being seen walking hurriedly away from the apartment. He was not immediately identified by police.

Police said they found the bodies of Lucille Lynn Alger, 51, and Kenneth Ray Steele, 40, around 12:15 a.m.

They gave this account of the slayings: "Mrs. Alger, Steele and the man being held apparently argued over jewelry. The two were shot on a mattress stretched out on the living room floor in front of a television set.

"Mrs. Alger's body was on the mattress and it appeared Steele had crawled off it and died on the floor. Both were shot in the forehead and shoulder with a .25-caliber pistol.

A former model, Mrs. Alger divorced her husband in 1961 after describing herself as a "political widow." She said in court she and Alger had in common only a liking for gin rummy, "but he quit because I beat him."

Alger, a Republican, was defeated for re-election in 1964.

After the divorce, a battle continued over property rights and the custody of the couple's three children. Three years later a son, David, 15, was killed in a car accident in Bethesda, Md.

LUCILLE ALGER . . . found dead.

Guard Arrested In Biggest Cash Robbery

CHICAGO (AP) — A suspect in the $4.3 million theft from a Chicago armored security firm was arrested by police and federal agents early Sunday, authorities said.

Ralph Ronald Marrera, a guard for the Purolator Security Inc. on duty at the time of the robbery, had been sought in an extensive search after being charged in the case. He was arrested at the suburban Oak Park home of his mother-in-law.

Purolator Security is the parent firm of Armored Express Corp., out of whose vault thieves took $4.3 million in cash Sept. 20, making it the largest cash haul in U.S. history. Authorities at first estimated the theft at $3.9 million, but the FBI revised the figure Friday.

Another $21 million in the vault was not removed, because of lack of time or manpower, authorities say.

Marrera, charged in a federal warrant with bank robbery, larceny and use of explosive devices, was being held pending arraignment Monday before a U.S. commissioner here, an FBI spokesman said.

A Chicago police investigator said police went to the home of his mother-in-law after searching through civil records to find where Marrera's relatives in the Chicago area live.

Another suspect, Charles Marzano, is being sought in a nationwide search. Two other men were questioned earlier and released.

The stolen money has not been recovered.

Marrera had been questioned by police and then by a Cook County grand jury last week and released afterward. He was charged on Friday but authorities were unable to find him until Sunday.

A $195,000 reward has been offered for information leading to the money's recovery.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Sun Times reported Sunday that two undercover state investigators who were instrumental in identifying suspects in the burglary are being provided constant protective security.

The agents had learned several months ago that a major theft was being planned, but could not identify where or when it was to take place.

Arabs Argue West Bank Claim

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Arab leaders met Sunday in an attempt to reconcile Jordan and the Palestinian guerilla movement, but officials of both sides said a compromise was impossible.

Representatives of the Palestine Liberation Organization and the Jordanian delegation both claimed the right to negotiate for the return of the occupied West Bank of Jordan from Israel.

Jordan's King Hussein and PLO chief Yasir Arafat attended a closely guarded meeting in the palace of King Hassan II of Morocco in which Hussein made a lengthy exposition of his case.

A high Jordanian official said the situation did not lend itself to compromise because Israel refuses to deal with the PLO.

"King Hussein insists on a clear mandate from the other heads of state on what they want Jordan to do," the official said.

But a Palestinian spokesman said, "We will not accept any compromise with Jordan concerning our right to speak for the Palestinian people."

Opening the summit last night, Hassan called on Hussein and Arafat to "overcome all obstacles and marginal problems and show the spirit of tolerance needed to build a bridge of honor."

Hassan warned Israel against what he called the illusion that the quarrel between Hussein and Arafat "can make the Arabs forget the real battle."

Called to discuss all aspects of the Middle East conflict and of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's mediation efforts, the summit has become almost exclusively an attempt to bring Hussein and Arafat together.

Conference sources said the next move toward a settlement with Israel depended largely on the outcome of these efforts.

Hussein is holding out for the right to negotiate with Israel to restore Jordanian sovereignty on the West Bank of the Jordan River. Arafat maintains that only the "Palestinian people" have a right to negotiate over the fate of Palestinian territory.

The PLO spokesman said the PLO "rejects the right of Jordan to represent any part of Palestinian territory at any time and under any circumstances, including withdrawal negotiations. It is either we or Jordan."

Schmidt Party Loses

Bonn — Economic uncertainty and a threat of growing unemployment cost West Germany's Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's Social Democratic Party seats in the state legislatures of both Hesse and Bavaria in the first test of the voters' mood at the polls since last spring. The opposition Christian Democrats knocked the Social Democrats from their position as the biggest party in Hesse for the first time in 28 years.

Pests Destroy Half Food

New York — An estimated half or more of the world's critically short food supply is consumed or destroyed each year by insects, molds, rodents, birds or other pests that attack the foodstuffs in the fields, during shipment or in storage. Experts believe that control of a part of these losses may be the quickest, least costly way of increasing food available to the millions of hungry and malnourished people throughout the world.

Oil In Norwegian Sea

New York — High-quality oil has been discovered at two widely separated locations in the Norwegian Sea, raising the possibility of extensive petroleum deposits under those deep-sea areas. In drilling in August and September, the American research ship Glomar Challenger also found evidence that a land bridge linked Europe and North America long after those continents had begun drifting apart.

Mass Transit Gaining Riders

New York — Six months after the easing of the severe gasoline shortages of last winter and spring, many of the mass transit systems in the United States are still gaining new riders. Transit authorities say while many of those forced to use buses or subways have long since returned to the automobile, others have remained with mass transit, reversing a long trend in urban mobility.

Democrats Closing The Gap As GOP Voter Count Atrophies

By ERIC KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

Nebraska, where the GOP elephant has reigned supreme along the Platte, may be on its way to a Democratic majority.

The Republicans took it in the trunk Saturday when Secretary of State Allen Beermann released the latest voter registration figures. The Republicans had a mere 21,399 more registered voters than the Democrats.

The gap was 11,038 voters narrower than it was just before the May primary.

Analyses Made

An analysis by the Associated Press of figures released by Beermann showed:

The Republicans have 48.97%, the Democrats, 46.25% and the Independents 4.72%. The Republican lead is only 2.72%.

But of course, registered voters are not votes.

The gap narrowed in all three congressional districts. And, suprisingly, Republicans did the worst in the 3rd District which covers traditionally-Republican Western Nebraska. The Republicans still have a 151,377 to 114,742 lead in the 61-county 3rd District. But the GOP's 36,635 lead was down 4,814 from May.

Both Parties Drop

Both parties dropped registered voters in the 3rd District because of a new law which allows election officials to purge voter registration lists. The names of individuals who die or move away are now removed. The Republicans lost 6,904 registered voters in the 3rd district, while Democrats were able to hold their losses to 2,000.

Wayne Ziebart gives the Democrats in the 3rd District the best chance they have had in recent years. That may have spurred them on in their registration efforts.

The biggest drops in voter registration, according to Beermann's figures, came in Hall and Scotts Bluff counties. Since May, the Republicans lost 3,133 in Hall County and 1,483 in Scotts Bluff County. The Democratic losses were 2,995 and 503.

Gains, Losses

In the 3rd District, Republicans gained in 34 counties and lost in 27. The Democrats gained in 33 counties, broke even in two and lost in 26.

In the 2nd District, the Democrats jumped another 3,290 in front of the Republicans to take a lead of 30,063 in voter registration. Though the district, which includes the Omaha area, has long been Democratic, it has had Republican congressmen since Roman Hruska was elected to the House in 1952.

Republicans lost 659 registered voters and Democrats gained 2,631 in the district. Most of those changes came in Douglas County where the Democrats have gained 2,113 and the Republicans have lost 563 since May.

The 2nd District is a five-county group along the Iowa border, running north and south of Omaha.

Lead Cut To 14,827

Between the 2nd District and Western Nebraska's

3rd District are the 27 counties of the 1st District. Here, the Republicans lost 1,533 registered voters and the Democrats gained 1,401. The Republicans lead by only 14,827.

If the Omaha area continues to grow faster than the rural western part of the state, the 1st District will apparently have to move east to keep the population balanced between the districts. The 1st District might have to take some counties from the 2nd District and give some to the 3rd District.

The first county to leave the 2nd District would probably be either Burt at the northern end of the district or Cass at the southern end. Washington, Douglas or Sarpy County could not be removed from the district without splitting it in two.

Burt County would add about 1,000 to the Republican majority in the 1st District. Cass favors the Democrats by a margin of about 200 voters.

Real Change

The real change would come at the border between the 1st and 3rd Districts.

The 1st District may have to give up some of its most Republican counties, moving Democrats closer to domination of the 1st District.

York County is one of the furthest west in the 3rd District. The Republicans' lead in the 1st District would be cut by nearly 3,000 if York County left the district.

The most Democratic counties on the border between the 3rd District and the 1st District are Butler and Colfax. The Republicans could improve their lead in the 1st district by giving the Democratically dominated counties to the Republican 3rd District. But that would leave the 1st District nearly cut in half with only Dodge and Saunders counties forming a narrow strip to connect northeastern Nebraska with the southeastern part of the state.

And Lincoln is growing. Lancaster County now has only 60 more registered Republicans than Democrats. As the urban population of Lincoln increases, it could contribute to a Nebraska where Democrats have a majority in two of the three congressional districts.

3 Nebraskans Killed In Weekend Wrecks

By The Associated Press

A Dwight area man suffered fatal injuries in a car-tractor collision Sunday evening, the third traffic victim of the weekend in Nebraska.

Butler County Sheriff Leo F. Meister identified the man as Adolph Urbanek, driver of the car involved in the mishap about one mile southwest of Dwight.

Urbanek, 50, died in a Seward hospital.

Meister said Urbanek's east-bound car was in collision with the rear of a tractor driven by Alfred Janousek, 43, of Brainard, who was treated at the hospital for head injuries and released.

The State Patrol said Timothy Hoffman, 19, of Fremont was killed early Sunday in a one-car accident on a county road about one and one-half miles west of Fremont.

The westbound car left the road, rolled and struck a tree.

Seventeen-year-old Craig Keech of Elgin was killed about midnight Saturday when the car in which he was a passenger went out of control on a county road about two miles west of Elgin.

Officers said Kent Beckman, 16, of Elgin was the driver of the car.

Table Rock Woman, 67, Killed In Farm Accident

Table Rock (AP) — Mrs. Earl McKim, 67-year-old rural Table Rock woman, has died in a farm accident.

Officers said she and her husband apparently were unloading corn and McKim was trying to get the wagon closer to elevator when the mishap occurred.

They said the woman apparently slipped and fell under a wheel of the wagon and died instantly late Friday.

The McKim family farm is about nine miles northeast of Table Rock in Pawnee County.

Body Found In Missouri River Identified As Council Bluffs Man

Papillion (AP) — Sarpy County Sheriff Patrick Thomas said Sunday that a body found in the Missouri River Saturday had been identified as that of Lawrence Leask, 41, of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

The body was found by Larry Witwin of Bellevue, who was fishing north of Bellevue Bridge. Earlier attempts to identify the body had proved unsuccessful.

Mrs. Leask had told police in Council Bluffs that she saw her husband jump into the river from the Interstate 80 bridge Oct. 10.

Mexicans Find Missing Child From Omaha

Omaha (AP) — Police said a 16-month-old child, reported missing Monday by his Omaha mother, had been located in Mexico.

Officers said the child, Albert Eugene Worley, son of Violette Renee Worley, was found Friday in a hotel room in Nogales Sonora, Mexico by Mexican authorities.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said the child had been beaten and tied to the bed and a bag had been placed over his head. The child was reported in satisfactory condition.

Police said he was being cared for by the Public Welfare Department at Santa Cruz, Ariz., and that the mother was enroute there.

Police said when found in the Mexican hotel, the child had a note with him telling his mother's name and address.

Police said the case now is being investigated as a kidnapping and a 27-year-old former Omaha man was being sought.

Wedding Tops Game—Barely

The only way to have a wedding in Lincoln the Saturday of a University of Nebraska-Lincoln Homecoming is to schedule it as close to halftime as possible.

That's what Terry and Kim Bowers found out this weekend.

Kim, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Larson of Lyons, and Terry Bowers of Lincoln, were married 3 p.m. Saturday in Westminster Presbyterian Church in Lincoln.

But not without giving in a bit to Big Red. Arnold Heideman of Lyons, the bride's uncle, had no choice but to attend — he hosted the bridal reception right after the ceremony.

But Uncle Arnold was among at least eight men who used earphones and transistor radios to pass play-by-play accounts of the Huskers and Oklahoma State Cowboys to others sitting in their pews.

One woman, unaware of the conflict, said of all the earphones: "I had no idea so many people were hard of hearing."

That's the same Uncle Arnold who, last fall, refused to attend the wedding of another niece on another Saturday football day in Lincoln.

Even the church's pastor, Robert Palmer, had both the game and the wedding on his mind. (And in that order.)

The pastor took a taxi from the grandstand about half-time to perform the ceremony. He had intended to take a taxi back to the game, he said, "but there just wasn't time."

Panel On Aging OKs Subgrant To Hospital

The Nebraska Commission on Aging announced Sunday it has approved a subgrant of the Nebraska Hospital Association for Memorial Community Hospital at Blair.

The grant will be used for home health care services for the elderly in Washington and Burt Counties.

Joseph A. Gaida, the commission's executive director, said the program's estimated cost will be $3,645. The proposed contribution from the applicant has been set at $1,824. The remaining $1,821 would be federally supported.

The program will provide skilled nursing service and physical therapy to qualified persons needing medical attention in their own homes.

Campaign Not Encouraging

President Ford has been setting what is far from an enviable tone for the current campaign and the echo of it is heard right here in Nebraska. Ford is engaging in the kind of broad strokes that tend to paint everybody with the same brush and attribute to them an extremism that has no real validity.

Spending, foreign policy and labor support have been the areas of indictment the President has served up for the Democratic party. Not in any of the three areas is there the substance of a real issue and we had hoped that something better than this might have come about.

The national climate at this time would seem to cry out for a campaign that was a little above the old and tired partisanship of the past. The times do not seem to us to call for the cheap tricks, clever rhetoric and lack of issues that Ford has carried throughout the nation in a series of personal appearances.

Here in Nebraska it has been much the same thing, with local GOP candidates picking up the anti-labor and anti-spending theme so extolled by their leader. Additionally, it has been a case of the pot and the kettle with the Republicans complaining of Democratic spending and campaign support sources.

The GOP in Nebraska has for years far outspent the Democrats and the Republicans have characteristically been supported by interest groups beyond the borders of the state. Yet, these are the kinds of things the Republican candidates are seeking to pin on their political opponents at this time, especially in the House races and the contest for governor.

The campaign would have been far better if these kind of side issues had been given a back seat and the candidates concentrated on trying to come up with the best answers to the problems of the nation and the state.

In the case of Ford, his campaign has effectively laid to rest his efforts at bipartisanship. He has assured himself a hostile Congress in 1975 and, very likely, without picking up any additional support among the electorate in general.

One can only wonder why he chose to do so. One would expect him to pursue his convictions but not in the spirit he has displayed the past couple of weeks.

Outasight, Outamind

It is extraordinary how many things we don't talk about any more. There is Watergate, which everybody is tired of hearing about, and there is Vietnam, which everybody wants to pretend doesn't exist.

And Patricia Hearst. If anyone even mentions Patricia Hearst these days it is only to ask, as one might ask about the good old days, "Whatever happened to Patricia Hearst?"

Whatever happened to the Symbionese Liberation Army? For that matter, whatever happened to black power, the new left and "the movement"? What was "the movement" anyhow?

Nobody ever talks about "the revolution" any more, nor campus unrest, nor the Beatles. When is the last time anybody talked about "Hippies"? About "fun City"?

Nobody says "hightight" anymore, "or backlash," or "silent majority." Nobody talks about "the free world," "the struggle for men's minds," "the new politics," or Spiro Agnew.

It is as though Agnew had never existed, yet within the memory of recently born babes he was the rising glory of Republicanism. Now, in less than a year he has become an unperson.

So has John Connally. Anybody remember "Big John"? He was the post-Agnew rising glory of Republicanism, and now he has been consumed and forgotten after three minutes of fame.

Three minutes of fame may be all any man, any idea, or any event can expect nowadays. There was a war in Cyprus a few weeks ago and afterwards a sort of revolution in Greece, and who remembers it any more?

Anything that is four minutes old is as ancient as Egypt. And speaking of Egypt, whatever happened to Libya?

We consume our history so fast to get on to the next tidbit that there is no time to digest it, and so become a people without memory.

Whatever happened to George McGovern? Who was Elliot Richardson? Where is little Tania's Leningrad diary?

To ask these questions is to be tiresome, to betray oneself as a lingerer in the past at a time when events are rushing ahead at breakneck speed. We like that cliché — Events rushing at breakneck speed — it gives us the sense of living dynamically, which is a delusion because events are not rushing anywhere. We are merely consuming them at indigestible speed, perhaps so they will not get lodged in our memory and start to mean something to us.

Who was General Thieu? What was Mylai? Does anybody remember light at the end of the tunnel?

Nobody wants to hear about such things any more. We are blanking experience out of memory. There are weighty events bearing down upon us which must be dealt with at once. President Ford's swimming pool. Pollution-emission controls. The cold-water laundry crisis.

Who has heard lately of Elizabeth Taylor? What became of Rowan and Martin? Stokely Carmichael? Abby Hoffman and Jerry Rubin?

And who has talked lately about the most important book of the decade? None of us probably, for none of us can remember its title, any more than we can remember who played in the game of the century not long ago.

It is not surprising that trivia is one of the few pastimes that has survived an entire decade, for it demands ability to remember facts without context, and facts without context are almost all that remain when you consume history with your brain off. Nowadays context is harder to find than 90-cent hamburger.

It is very much like flying across the country by jet. The country does not rush by underneath so rapidly that we cannot see it, sense it, digest it and emerge with the slightest sense of what an extraordinary and fascinating place it is; it is we who rush by overhead so fast that the journey becomes meaningless.

"We are coming up over the Grand Canyon on the left side of the plane now and will shortly be crossing the Mississippi River, folks." What was Pompidou? Which was Anthony Ulasewicz? Why was Charles Manson? Who was the second man on the Moon?

It is a fast trip up here at 35,000 light years above context, but despite the speed you sometimes wonder if you are really going any place at all.

The Positive Approach

NEW YORK — In modern, sophisticated America, the cliché has it that violence and pornography "sell" — while wholesomeness sits sweetly in the lap of bankruptcy.

This sort of value distortion deeply disturbs Mr. Albert Schlang, crusader and arts patron.

"What right," he asks indignantly, "have a handful of junk-peddlers to sell bad merchandise to the American people? Producers and distributors of violence-creating and porno films are as guilty of corrupting our young generation as are producers and distributors of drugs and handguns! Every film about terrorism results in more (emulated) terrorism in real life. We've got to fight this — and not just by fighting against the negative, but fighting for the positive..."

But that is not going to be easy, because we are living in a negative-oriented society. There is great response to "anti" movements, and yet little tendency toward "pro" movements, according to Schlang.

For example, this week in New York City, a beautiful film — "Giuseppe Verdi — His Life, His Loves, His Operas" — will open a limited engagement. It will play in 14 theaters in the area during the next three weeks, offering audiences an opportunity to hear excerpts from Verdi's works sung by tenor Mario Del Monaco, baritone Tito Gobbi and other Metropolitan and La Scala greats, plus a touching biographical love story.

Schlang, a millionaire music buff, is providing the movie, and will use his grosses for Opera Presentations, Inc., his nonprofit organization that funds music education projects and underwrites young singers and small opera groups throughout the country.

He is gratified that "Verdi" has finally made the screens of New York, and will help the cause of opera. But he is disturbed that other U.S. cities have not yet elected to screen it (except for five cities in Florida).

"I've tried for months to get charities in cities around the country to accept my offer to show this film, and raise money for their own musical institutions, but they have failed to stir. The concept of positive action is too new. It is like the neighborhood block associations. They spend all their time fighting to keep pornography and methadone clinics out of their area. But they don't seem inclined to fight to bring positive elements in."

Schlang is dynamic, 63, a philanthropist who hates the term philanthropist because it denotes giving — but not creating. "I like to think of myself as creative. A concept person." His concepts have been catalogued in "Who's Who in America" for nearly 35 years, since he had to quit college during the Depression because there wasn't enough money to continue his education. Within a few years of dropping out of New York University, he had developed the concept of buying and selling N.Y.C. buildings as individual centers for various trades, such as shipping, export-import, textile manufacture, etc. And from the moment he acquired great wealth, he began developing concepts for how to give it away in worthy causes. Still in real estate, he is a partner in a N.Y. Stock Exchange firm, and heads at least a dozen foundations dedicated to helping humanity.

Schlang's pet cause long has been music. Specialty, opera. He originated the Metropolitan Opera Patron Program, introduced live and filmed operas in New York's parks, sponsors radio programs called "Opera Stars of Tomorrow," has personally financed the training of 150 young singers.

Republican For Dyas

Lincoln, Neb.

Even though I am a registered Republican, after watching Congressman Thone's performance on ETV last week I feel I cannot support him for re-election. Not only has he evaded a debate confrontation with his opponent, Hess Dyas, but when given the opportunity to voice his opinions on ETV, he failed miserably in taking a tangible position on any of the issues.

While I cannot entirely agree with all of Mr. Dyas' positions, I respect his forthright treatment of the issues and I feel confident that he will actively represent our district in Congress.

I do believe that you should vote for the better man, regardless of political affiliation.

Election Purge Asked

Wilcox, Neb.

Voters, ask yourselves these following questions: Who instituted the I.T.T. payoff which has never been solved? It isn't hard to guess.

Who brought about the "Great American Grain Robbery"? The present secretary of agriculture, although he denies he was implicated. What a laugh!

Who spirited $200 million out of the country after contributing $200,000 to the re-election committee? Namely Robert Vesco.

Who tried to cheat the Internal Revenue Service out of over $500,000? The two former highest office-holders in the U.S.A., Richard Nixon and Spiro Agnew.

Who went to bat, so to speak, and claimed Nixon was the victim of a double agent? Our own Hon. Carl T. Curtis. How asinine can a person be and still represent the great State of Nebraska?

I can completely agree with Ralph Nader that we have two senators that perform better for any other state than they do for Nebraska.

How can President Ford conscientiously pardon Nixon when he has never been judged "guilty" without playing partisan politics?

Hugh Scott declares we should not draw and quarter Nixon. Mr. Nixon made his own bed by practicing the highest kind of deceit on the American people. The man who deserves amnesty is John Dean, as time will prove he was telling the truth.

How can any voter vote for the party which has members who have been responsible for these acts? Let's purge these people who have held for these things.

First Impression Sticks

Lincoln, Neb.

I have just finished reading with great interest a letter in The Star by Dr. Leon W. Carpenter. In his letter Dr. Carpenter praises Lincoln, Nebraska, for its "friendliness, hospitality and helpful attitudes of its citizens."

I also have come to Lincoln on business. When I first came here, about two months ago, my first impressions were exactly the same as Dr. Carpenter's. I was going to write a letter to "Today's Mail" after my first week here praising Lincoln and its friendly citizens, however, I decided to wait to make sure my first impression would last.

After being here almost two months I can say, without a doubt, that I agree with Dr. Carpenter. The only thing that I could add to Dr. Carpenter's characterization of Lincoln is its cleanliness. Lincoln is one of the cleanest large towns I've ever been in.

Citizens of Lincoln, you should be very proud of your city and its people. You have a right to be proud.

Of True Colors And New Blood

Lincoln, Neb.

I see by the newspaper accounts that Charles Thone has shown his true colors just in time for the election.

In his weekly column which appeared in a lot of local newspapers in late September, Mr. Thone said this:

"Congress ought to scrap our foreign aid program right now. The current rate of expenditure is $14 billion a year."

He also said: "When Turks and Greeks fought on Cyprus this year, both sides were fighting with arms supplied by the United States. Turkey was clearly the aggressor after the Greek military government fell. Yet the administration proposes to continue military aid to Turkey."

So last week, the foreign aid to Turkey came up for a vote in Congress. There was a motion to cut off foreign aid to Turkey, according to articles in the daily papers. How did Thone vote? To cut off the aid, as he urged a few weeks before? No! He voted not to cut off aid.

The motion passed, the papers tell us, and President Ford vetoed the cut-off of aid. So Congress had a vote on whether to override the veto. And once more, Mr. Thone voted not to cut-off foreign aid.

What kind of man is Mr. Thone? Does he think we're stupid? That he can tell us one thing, and do the opposite, and get away with it? We've had that stuff too long. We need new blood in Washington.

And I have one more gripe about Mr. Thone. His supporters have been mailing to local newspapers a bunch of negative bunk about who supports his opponent, Hess Dyas. So I called the Dyas office in Lincoln, and they told me where I could see his financial report. On the report are hundreds and hundreds of Nebraska people who have chipped in a few dollars each to support Mr. Dyas.

So, after all that, after Mr. Thone's actions on foreign aid and the smear campaign he has encouraged, you can bet my vote is going to the new man... Hess Dyas.

Thone No. 1

Lincoln

Recently I was in Washington trying to help a client who operates a small business in Nebraska's First District. Technical problems with some regulatory agencies were affecting the future of the business and the jobs of 27 employees. The owner of the business and 19 of the employees are registered Democrats.

Congressman Charles Thone knew that the owner of the business was a Democrat and had campaigned against him in the past. However, Charles Thone and his excellent staff proceeded to do a magnificent job in helping to solve the technical problems for this small business and protected its future operations.

We call this "statesmanship and integrity." It is obvious that Charles Thone is Nebraska's No. 1 man in Washington.

ATTORNEY

By DON WALTON

Boy, oh boy.

This weekly offering didn't appear in The Star for the past two weeks, and there wasn't a single inquiry whether the author had been fired or finally institutionalized.

Well, the answer is yes and no. Or, more accurately, no and yes. Fired? Not yet.

Institutionalized? Well, sort of. It was a two-week newspaper reporting seminar in Virginia which held me captive. Useful? Yes. Worthwhile? Yes. But you remember that feeling on the last day of school.

Anyway, back to the wars.

Catching up with Campaign 1974 last week with a few days on the road with gubernatorial candidates, we discovered that not much has changed since September.

Governor Exon appears on his way to a second term.

Jerry Whelan will probably be presiding over the 1975 Legislature. And that should be some show — with a number of senators picking away at him for their own personal or political reasons.

Charley Thone and John McCollister seem to still be out front. But Hess Dyas is closing in on Thone, it would appear. And Dan Lynch could still win easily over McCollister if Omaha Democrats decide to vote Democratic.

Dyas may run out of time. Lynch must rely on a reversal of Omaha voting habits to win.

Call the Third District contest a tossup between Wayne Ziebarth and Mrs. Haven Smith. In that one, it would appear, Ziebarth is the one out front, and Mrs. Smith is closing in.

By the way, those aren't predictions. Let's call them observations.

And if anyone happens to think they are reliable guides to the election, I probably should point out that The Star's political writer (that's me) finished far down the list in an office election pool of predictions four years ago.

For instance, to place my observations in perspective, I thought Clifton Butcherider would beat Nobby Tiemann in the 1970 Republican gubernatorial primary election. Then, in the general election, I thought Tiemann would beat Jim Exon. That should encourage Dick Marvel. Or Ernie Chambers.

Okay, now I'll finish up with a little bit about that seminar.

You know how reporters hate to hear the words "off the record?"

Well, this seminar for newspapermen sponsored by newspapers was — you guessed it — off the record.

There wasn't much that would be of interest to you anyway. Reporting techniques, investigative tactics, personal ethics (or lack of them), stuff like that. When it was finished, 20 reporters from around the country left with 30 differing views.

But one evening session at The Washington Post was expressly on the record. And there might be a few things out of that one which would be of interest.

The Post, it seems, was spurred to do a superlative job of investigating the Watergate story partly out of its dissatisfaction with being badly beaten on the Pentagon Papers story by The New York Times and others.

Its quiet fear during the Watergate investigation was that the government would charge it with treason. You can imagine what the very charge itself could do to public support for the newspaper's efforts.

Having committed itself fully to the Watergate story, in the face of extreme pressures, the Post believes it will now pursue other investigative efforts without any of the hesitancy which may once have influenced such decisions.

Riding high today, the Post is not content to rest on its journalistic achievements. There's more to come.

How about one little campaign anecdote to finish this off?

This story is second-hand, so I won't use the name of the candidate.

But it seems that one of Nebraska's office seekers this year was orating at some length on the need in America to consider the problems of the world outside its borders.

We ignore those woes at our own peril, it was suggested.

We cannot, this audience was told, afford to stand around with our head up our sand.

Steak, Big Car Sign Of Rich?

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

If you eat steak for dinner and have a Cadillac parked in front of the house, you are filthy rich, right?

Wrong, you are a frustrated Nebraska cattle feeder, and you are in serious danger of losing everything you and your wife have worked a lifetime to accumulate.

There actually is such a person in Nebraska. He is Ralph Lubeck, who farms with his wife Jean and son Bryan near Stamford.

The Cadillac was admittedly purchased as previously owned (it seems such cars are never used or second hand but previously owned) back when gasoline was a lot cheaper and cattle were priced a lot higher.

Might As Well Eat

The steak is easily accounted for. If you know you are losing $100 on a steer you sell, you might as well eat the thing yourself. Besides, a steer isn't all steak, and once you kill it you have to eat the whole thing.

The picture of eating steak and driving an expensive car can create a false impression of wealth in the mind of a city dweller, who only thinks of steak and rides the bus to work, but it is a part of the real life, idiotic economic situation that cattle feeders find themselves in today.

The Lubecks are typical of what happened to cattle feeders. Bryan joined his father in a loosely organized partnership where both own some land and some cattle but essentially share the operation of 2,400 acres of crop and pasture land and run 1,000 head of cattle of all kinds.

"We started fixing the place up, rebuilding some corrals or feedlots, planned to build a new house and replace some of our old equipment and, considered a legally drawn up partnership agreement, but it kind of fell apart with the cattle price," Lubeck said.

Will Be Some Changes

Bryan intends to hang on and keep farming, but the big car will be replaced with a compact when it quits running. Replacing the shaky farm home is out of the question for the immediate future, and the half-completed feedlot remodeling is halted for the time being.

A second son, Brock, works at the local lumber yard and may eventually join the father-son arrangement, assuming the operation survives the current cattle crunch.

"We applied and got one of those emergency cattle loans. It will prolong the agony some, and if cattle prices improve it will keep us in business to take advantage of it."

"If cattle prices don't improve soon, we are going to be in deep trouble and could possibly lose the whole thing. I don't sleep so good when I think about it," Lubeck said.

Market Most Weeks

The Lubecks market a truckload of cattle almost every week, and they buy some feeder cattle most weeks, filling in the gaps with home raised calves in a program designed to take the ups and downs out of the cattle market. For the last 18 months there have been too many downs and too few ups.

"Feed prices are killing us. We are buying more grain because we were short of water this year due to the drought, couldn't irrigate it all. Also, we are putting a lot of corn into silage so there is less available for grain. Hopefully, the silage will cut our costs some," Lubeck said.

Mother Nature must not like the Lubecks this year because she isn't helping much. Pastures are bone dry and a sort of dry brown. Winter pastures of rye and wheat should be ankle high on the cattle, but haven't started to grow because it is too dry.

Pumping water on the pastures is going to mean hard work, an added expense for fuel plus and added wear on well-worn irrigation equipment.

'There Are The Boys'

Why stay in the business of feeding cattle and borrow money at a very high risk to his farming operation? "Well, there is the need to have an inventory of cattle to sell if prices do recover, and there are the boys. It would be easy to sell out and go to town, but I hope the boys will want to stay and build on what we had started here. Bryan definitely wants to farm, and Brock might want to join him some day. I guess that's the real reason," said Lubeck.

The battered feed truck sports a L/R brand and proclaims the dream in faded paint, Ralph Lubeck and Sons. That dream depends on the doubtful hope that cattle feeding will soon become a profitable business again.

BATTERED TRUCK . . . mirrors situation of Lubeck, son Bryan, left.

Spotlight on Agriculture

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

The Eastern Nebraska Beef Cattle Testing Station is 11 years old as of Oct. 28.

The organization can test some 200 bulls on their individual capacity to gain weight and convert feed to lean meat and things like that, in case you thought it involved something sinister.

It is a good deal for the housewife, as it makes it possible for the farmer to deliver a better quality piece of beef to the supermarket.

The farmer, rancher or livestock feeder who seeks out these top quality cattle usually survives in farming longer than the one who didn't.

Dairy cooperatives are being criticized for holding the price of milk above the minimum allowed by law.

For crying out loud, that is what the (expensive) delectated cooperative is supposed to do. Unfortunately for the thousands upon thousands of dairymen who were forced to quit milking cows over the years, they never managed it before.

There is some question in Congress about who should be allowed to join a cooperative. Should a food processor who owns some production land be allowed to join a co-op which is selling its product to the processor?

You can also get into the question of who should be allowed to farm at all.

I don't pretend to know the answers to those sticky questions, but I must admit I would feel better about the investigation in Congress if it weren't headed by the son of the chairman of the board of Heinz 57 varieties.

If Mr. Rockefeller is under fire for gifts to his underlings, it would seem equally doubtful that Congressman Heinz could be totally impartial in his judgments on cooperatives which must compete with, if not sell to, his father's company.

Weekly Grain Report

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Grain prices are slipping badly as predicted due to the combination of harvest lines at the elevators and farmers selling at high harvest time prices.

Soybean prices have been clobbered by a cut in the amount being processed and higher than expected yields.

It might be profitable to hold onto any soybeans you have that can qualify as good seed. Eastern states are reporting that beans seem to be immature and aren't likely to germinate very well.

Feed grains are drifting lower and are likely to be down for some time. The stocks of feed grains are way down but the grain trade knew that already.

The amount of wheat and feed grains used up by livestock feeders, food processors and export demand has been much lower in response to higher prices for feed and lower prices for livestock produced products, such as milk, meat and eggs at the farm level.

Now that the Russians know how much grain they can buy from the United States, they have begun scurrying around the world to buy up what they do need.

This will strengthen world grain prices and should benefit our grain growers unless the government tightens the screws on its so-called voluntary export control program.

The reduced consumption of all products reinforces my previous prediction that market prices at harvest time may be our best of the year.

Tax Valuation On Animals Tied To Livestock Market In Omaha

By United Press International

As the livestock market goes, according to state law, so go the valuations of farm and ranch animals for property tax purposes.

And, according to State Tax Commissioner William Peters, that means the valuations for animals for 1975 property tax figuring purposes have decreased an average 16.9% overall from the 1974 levels.

That was the word sent out recently by Peters to county assessors for use in figuring 1975 taxes.

March 1 Deadline

However, Peters said, if anyone wants to challenge the decline in property tax valuations, they may file protests before March 1, 1975.

The method of determining livestock values for tax purposes, according to Peters' staff, is purely mathematical. In other words, government has nothing to do with the process other than the calculating.

Valuations for Nebraska livestock are figured by averaging out market values on the Omaha market for a 12-month period, which begins Oct. 1.

That means the valuations established for 1975 reflect the downward trend which began after the market high was reached in August, 1973.

23.2% Decline

In terms of the different classes of livestock, Peters said the valuation of registered cattle changed the most, decreasing 23.2% from the 1974 valuations.

The other decreases included 15.5% for grade cattle, 9.4% for feeder cattle, 17.1% for hogs, 16.6% for registered hogs and 9.3% for grade sheep.

Only the valuation of registered sheep was higher than the 1974 figures, increasing 2.9%.

Here are the 1975 valuations for the different classes of livestock on an actual value, per head, basis:

Problems Of Poverty—Multiple, Complex

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

Ann Higer's "hands are tied." Like other low-income persons, she and her family don't have enough food, enough clothing, enough money to make ends meet.

Mrs. Higer, her husband, LeRoy, and their children live on the outskirts of the tiny Lancaster County community of Firth. But their problems are no different from those of poverty-stricken families in urban areas. The problems they face are multiple, complex. There are no simple solutions.

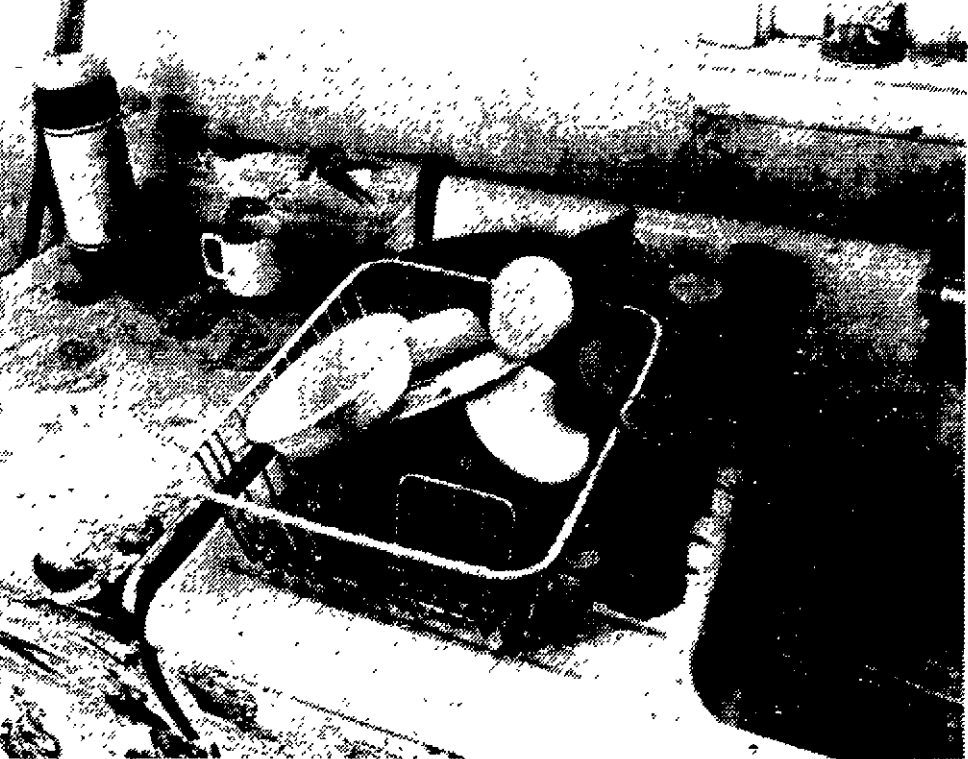

It's hard to keep going. And it's even harder for the Higers who know full well that tens of thousands of dollars due her sit idly in a trust fund.

"I'm sorry it's chilly in here," apologized Mrs. Higer, pulling her sweater snugly around her. "We don't have the money for propane."

It was one of those cold, windy days so typical of Nebraska autumns. It was cold outside, but chillier in the house.

MRS. HIGER . . . puts her son's shoes on.

BREAKFAST . . . dishes dry in kitchen.

Mrs. Higer's daughter Holly, nearly two, was drinking milk from a bottle. Her fingers were ice cold.

Fourteen months ago, the Higers signed up for the budget plan at the local propane firm. That way, they could space out their payments over the year, and not be especially hard hit during the winter months.

Under the terms of the contract, the Higers promised to pay $21 per month, the company was to "keep the tank reasonably full" as long as the monthly payments were made.

But the price of propane nearly tripled, the $21 would not cover the cost of the fuel — so the Higers were asked to increase their payments or pay outright for additional propane.

That was nearly impossible on Higer's monthly take-home pay of $348 from Bryan Memorial Hospital where he is a night custodian.

That money already is spoken for — $115 on the home mortgage, more than $25 for electricity, the $21 payment on the propane plan, clothing and food for the couple and their ten children, (she has 14 living children) plus the cost of gasoline for daily trips to Lincoln and back.

The Higers insist on remaining in Firth because they own their home and, besides, "the country is the best place to raise children," she said.

The County Welfare Department "saw that a need existed" and has come through with help for the Higers, said Don Williamson, assistant director. In most cases, only the elderly, blind, disabled and persons qualifying for Aid to Dependent Children (where a parent is absent or disabled) can receive assistance from the Welfare Department.

But through the general relief program, "others who do not qualify for state and federal" assistance, those who have "insufficient funds to meet their needs," can be helped by the county, at its discretion, he said.

That is where the Higers fit in. They are among the "very few" helped in such a way, on an "ongoing basis," Williamson said. The fund is most commonly used for food, utilities, rent, medical payments when an emergency arises, he pointed out.

The Welfare Department has helped the family obtain food stamps and pays its medical bills. From January, 1972, through April, 1974, it has lessened their burden to the tune of $3,319.76.

Another $3,020.88 was spent in the form of foster care for the children during five months of early 1972.

They were removed from their parents' care by the Welfare Department because the children were "neglected . . . the home they were in was very substandard" said a caseworker.

"We had food in the house, the kids had clothes, they were warm," Mrs. Higer said. "But the landlord wouldn't fix the water and the wiring."

In May, 1972, the Higers were able to make the downpayment on the home they currently are in. They were able to do that because of a $10,000 inheritance she received from the estate of her adoptive father, Charles Frederick Peachman.

Peachman's will also established a spend-thrift fund to "provide for the general welfare" of Mrs. Higer and her step sister.

That trust fund contains the thousands of dollars that might help the Higers pay their back bills and get out from under their overwhelming problems.

Although the estate was closed about a year ago — with the trust fund officially established at that time — Mrs. Higer has received only "dribbles" from that account. All that money has, of necessity, been applied to back bills accumulated prior to the trust fund's creation, she said.

The back bills were for "necessities of life."

Welfare has helped the family where medical and food bills are necessary.

The Lincoln Action Program recently "winterized" their home and the agency, serving low-income persons, also has helped the family "once or twice with clothing and with food when we ran out of food stamps," Mrs. Higer said.

Those sources of help have been just that — a help — but not enough to pull them out of the deep, deep problems they have.

The children still do not have warm clothing. They do not have pajamas, stockings, sweaters. The family is desperately in need of blankets and other "necessities."

The family has medical problems. Little Holly has a calcium deficiency and an imbalance problem for which she must wear leg braces; She had four broken bones within four months time; hot oil was spilled on her; she severely cut her hand on a can lid. Another child has a heart defect — the main valve is twisted — for which corrective surgery is required.

Another needs corrective shoes. Another resides in a foster home during the week to participate in special education classes at Hawthorne School.

The septic tank drain is plugged, presenting a potential health hazard. Once it freezes, the refuse will be forced back into the basement.

Mrs. Higer said the State Health Department inspected it and told her a completely new sewage system was necessary, that the underground pipes are insufficient. The cost of replacing the current system would be about $4,500, she said. Since then, an estimate for about half that amount has been made.

And the house is teeming with flies.

Unless the Higers are able to make the necessary repairs, they may lose their children again, a Welfare Department spokesperson said.

But they don't have the money with which to improve their living conditions.

The trustee has sole discretion to disperse the money when and where he sees fit. That has not been done, despite repeated requests.

The trust fund is to be terminated in the fall of 1983, with all remaining monies payable equally to Mrs. Higer and her sister, but that's a long way off.

"My hands are tied," Mrs. Higer said. "I haven't got the money. I don't know what to do."

"If we could make the repairs, I wouldn't complain," she said. "I'm trying to do with what I've got right now," she said. But the food stamps often don't last an entire month. The house is cold. And she can't lay her hands on enough warm clothing.

BUNDLED . . . up for warmth, Higer child plays with his doll.

Try New Food, Soybecue Sauce

How about some soybecued ribs? That's ribs with a new East-meets-West food called soybecue sauce.

The sauce is made by replacing part of the catsup in conventional sauce with red miso, a fermented soy food. It was developed by a Japanese scientist studying under the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Miso is a highly salted, fermented food which is rich in protein. Using miso in American foods like meat sauces, salad dressings and snack dips and spreads is also being studied.

An organization of Japanese companies is sponsoring the research. They are interested in Americanized miso products for use in Japanese as well as American markets. Foods like pizza and spaghetti are increasingly popular in Japan, and soybecue sauce might be used with them.

Is This 'Zombie' Married To A Hypocrite?

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago, after 26 years of marriage, I found out that my husband had been unfaithful to me. He is a very special person — kind, honest, friendly, and very active in our church. He travels some, and this infidelity occurred when he was away from home.

Since this happened, I haven't been myself. I feel like a zombie. I am play-acting instead of saying the things I really want to say to him.

I love him very much, and thought he loved me, too, but if he did, how could this have happened? I've searched my thoughts trying to understand where I failed him, but I haven't been able to come up with an answer.

When I see him praying in church every Sunday I wonder how he can be such a hypocrite. Please help me.

STILL HURTING

DEAR STILL: You say that you "know" your husband was unfaithful. How can you be sure — unless he admits it? Have you asked him? If you haven't, do. If he denies it, believe him. If he admits it, then ask him why he felt the need to stray, but don't be disappointed if he can't answer that question. We don't always know the reasons for our actions. Clear the air. Quit torturing yourself with doubts. And don't prejudge him. A church isn't a museum for sinners. (Let he who is without sin cast the first stone.)

DEAR ABBY: I am planning my wedding and need an opinion from someone outside my family.

My parents are divorced and I have lived with my mother since early childhood. She has been a wonderful mother not only to me but to my brothers and sisters. She always thought of her children first.

My father contributed nothing to my upbringing. Not even the child support the court ordered him to pay. I didn't respect him when I was a child, and I still don't.

Although I think the tradition of the bride's father "giving away" his daughter is beautiful, I want my mother to give me away instead.

What do you think of such an odd switch? Do I dare suggest it?

MAMMA'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: It's your wedding, and I see no reason why your mother shouldn't give you away if that's what you want. Tell whomever will officiate at your wedding about your wishes. It makes sense to me. (P.S. I once attended a lovely wedding where, in response to the clergyman's question, "Who gives this woman in marriage?", the mother and father replied in unison, "We do!")

DEAR ABBY: I like the way you remind your readers to be a little more patient with their elderly parents.

My mother is an 88-year-old widow who doesn't need any extra patience as yet, and I doubt if she ever will.

She reads and writes in seven languages, and proof-reads the Hebrew lettering for marble tombstones. Mom owns a duplex. She lives downstairs, alone, and rents the upstairs to a 92-year-old retired sea captain named Jack. Jack is bright, alert and sharp as a tack.

The other day when my brother Dave was visiting our mother, in his cute and kidding way he said, "Ma, what's this I hear about you fooling around with Jack?"

With a twinkle in her eye, Mom shot back, "Don't worry, son, I'm on the pill!"

SIDNEY R. IN BRANDON, VT.

DEAR SIDNEY: Thanks for sharing a cheerer-upper.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MONEY TALKS" IN TULSA: Yes, it talks, but it doesn't always give u the right answers.

Here's what a brilliant man had to say about the subject: "What availeth it if we become so engrossed in the pursuit of business of of money for its own sake, after we've earned a competency, if this pursuit unfits us for the enjoyment of the real, deep, stasifying things of life, if it blinds our eyes, warps our souls and numbs our better senses and sensibilities?"

"The be-all and end-all of life should not be simply to get rich, but to enrich the world." — B.C. FORBES

The bidding:

South West North East
1♠ Pass 3♦ Pass

Opening lead — jack of clubs. This deal, believe it or not, occurred in a French pair championship.

If you look at all four hands, it is plain to see that South has twelve of the coldest tricks you ever saw, since the trumps are divided 3-2. His only possible loser is a trump, since dummy's diamonds take care of declarer's hearts.

But the unlucky declarer who played the hand went down one, and how this occurred makes quite a story.

West led the jack of clubs, won by declarer with the king. South then played a low trump to the king and on it George Theron, international star, dropped the queen!

This extraordinary play had the desired effect. Declarer naturally became imbued with the fear that East's queen was a singleton, in which case West's holding would be the J-9-7-2. In that case South could not afford to play a trump back to the ace, because West's J-9 would become tricks and the slam would go down the drain.

So, to guard against a 4-1 division, South entered his hand with a diamond and played a low spade towards the ten. This would hold West to one trick if he had the J-9-7-2. South was not concerned with the possibility of East's having the Q-J alone, for in that case his only loser would be a trump trick.

In the actual case, West won the second trump with the jack, as his partner surprisingly followed with a low trump, and it did not take him long to find the killing club return. Theron ruffed, and the net effect of his remarkable play was that the ice-cold slam went down one.

Survey: Intervention In Chile Criticized

By LOUIS HARRIS

By 60-18%, a majority of the American people feels that it was "wrong for the United States to intervene in the internal affairs and to try to destabilize the government of Chile. President Ford acknowledged that U.S. intervention did take place, although Secretary of State Henry Kissinger argued that the aim of the U.S. was to insure the rights of those forces out of power, not to overthrow the Marxist regime of the late Chilean President Salvador Allende. President Allende died in a violent military coup, which overthrew his government just over a year ago.

A substantial majority (83-7%) agrees that "every country should have the right to determine its own government by itself, without outside interference from other countries." Traditionally, the right of self-determination has been a ground rule of international law, protecting the rights of smaller, weaker countries against the encroachment and invasion of larger powers.

But it is well known that in a world of super-powers, all with substantial intelligence networks, each major nation maintains extensive intelligence activities in nearly every country of the world. President Ford sought to defend U.S. intelligence activities by citing the larger sums spent by Communist nations for the same purposes. By a narrow, 43-39%, the American people are willing to accept the CIA's role as "working inside other countries to try to strengthen those elements friendly to the U.S. and to weaken anti-U.S. forces."

The heart of the controversy over American intervention in Chile is how to reconcile CIA operations designed to aid pro-U.S. elements with the universally accepted rule of self-determination. Cloaked in top secrecy, CIA operations normally remain unknown except to the highest officials of the agency, the Pentagon, the White House and select committees of Congress.

There were widespread reports of CIA activity in the overthrow of the Allende government in Chile at the time and charges by pro-Allende elements that the coup was engineered by the CIA. The CIA is particularly vulnerable to attack these days because of the unresolved charges over possible agency involvement in Watergate activities. When asked to rate the job the CIA is doing "as the chief foreign intelligence agency of the U.S. government," the public gives it no better than 42-31% negative marks; hardly a vote of confidence.

Secretary of State Kissinger's alleged role in U.S. operations in Chile has reportedly stemmed from orders originating with him as head of a secret federal security group to engage in "destablizing" activities in that country. When asked if Dr. Kissinger's usefulness would be impaired if allegations of his involvement in CIA activity in Chile proved to be true, 18% of the public feel that it would "seriously damage" his usefulness as secretary of state, and another 31% feel it would "only partly damage" him.

Nevertheless, at the moment, Dr. Kissinger is still highly regarded by the American people. Late last month, a cross section of 1,544 adults was asked nationwide: "How would you rate the job Henry Kissinger is doing as secretary of state — excellent, pretty good, only fair or poor?"

Even though Dr. Kissinger has somewhat slipped in public favor since last May, he still commands far more respect than that given most public figures in this year of dashed confidence in the government.

But regardless of Kissinger's achievement and policy at large, the policy of U.S. intervention in Chile stands roundly condemned by American public opinion. People were asked: "Do you think it was right or wrong for the U.S. to intervene in the internal affairs of Chile and to try to destabilize the government?"

U.S. INTERVENTION IN CHILE

	Total	Public
Right	58	18
Wrong	39	60
Not sure	3	22

Among those Americans who want their public officials to level with them and keep covert government activities to a minimum, there is likely to be a growing demand for full disclosure of the role of the CIA, particularly where its activities might be in conflict with the right of other nations to self-determination.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Monday

Aquarius is capable of doing "crazy" things, more so than most persons. Aquarius is Uranian who is unorthodox and anything but middle ground. Aquarians can appear "horse-faced," more so than most people. Aquarius is pre-logical, sensitive, talented, creative and unpredictable. Here are the individuals who invent, become interested in psychic phenomena, who are in aviation, astrology, electronics and who teach and learn, always imprinting their own styles. Aquarius makes money with Pisces. Has secret fear of Capricorn, signs agreements with Cancer, holds lively discussions with Aries, philosophizes with Libra and can fall madly in love with Gemini.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may find that one who promised money backing is backing out. You find where true friends are and you have reunion with one who previously gave you moral support. Question of taxes, insurance policy could loom large.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may be more concerned about partner, mate than about your own "ailments." You may find that you have been victim of "passion-colored glasses. Now is time to see people as they are, not as they profess to be.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emotional involvement is indicated. Nothing is halfway. If you are looking for "lukewarm water," you will have to wait for another time. Friend is due for upset. You will be part of a process that is exciting, but not without pitfalls. Protect yourself on clinches!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Now you finish — and you also find ways of communicating ideas and getting display space for products. Aries-Libra persons could figure prominently. Domestic situation is shaken — but there will be ultimate benefits.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Stress originality, independence — dance to your own tune. You may be dealing with another Leo — and an Aquarian. And that's enough for any mortal to handle! Accent

Cardinals Edge Redskins

By The Associated Press
Jim Hart outdueled Sonny Jurgensen in an aerial battle and the high-flying St. Louis Cardinals remained the only unbeaten National Football League team with a tense 23-20 victory over the Washington Redskins Sunday.

The Cardinals not only improved their sparkling record to 7-0 but also improved their chances considerably to win the National Conference's Eastern Division championship.

At the same time, the Redskins dropped further out of the Eastern Division picture with a 4-3 record, their worst start under Coach George Allen. The Philadelphia Eagles also dropped another game in back of the Cardinals with a 4-3 record after losing a 14-10 decision to the New Orleans Saints.

While their Cardinals solidified their place atop the NFC East, the Los Angeles Rams did the same in the West by beating the hapless New York Jets 20-13. The Rams boosted their record to 5-2 over the Atlanta Falcons, 24, who play in Monday night's weekly game against Pittsburgh, the American Conference's Central Division leader.

The New England Patriots,

Buffalo Bills and Miami Dolphins all won Sunday to keep the AFC East race simmering.

New England, 6-1, defeated the Minnesota Vikings 17-14. Buffalo, 6-1, stopped the Chicago Bears 16-6, and defending Super Bowl champion Miami, 5-2, trimmed the reeling Baltimore Colts 17-7. Although losing a game, the Vikings, 5-2, lost no ground in the NFC Central Division because both Chicago and Green Bay both lost behind them.

The Oakland Raiders, leaders in the AFC West, improved their mark to 6-1 by beating the San Francisco 49ers 35-24.

In other games, the Houston Oilers upset Cincinnati 34-21 and dropped the Bengals a full game behind Pittsburgh; the Cleveland Browns whipped the Denver Broncos 23-21; the Dallas Cowboys beat the New York Giants 21-7; the Detroit Lions nudged Green Bay 19-17 and the Kansas City Chiefs beat the San Diego Chargers 24-14.

Hart, at the height of his playing career, drilled touchdown passes to Earl Thomas and Donny Anderson to lead St. Louis past Washington despite Jurgensen's fine passing day. Hart clicked on 15 of 19 passes to outshine the Washington star, who also had a fine passing day with 20 of 29 completions but also made a crucial mistake.

Capitalizing on an errant Jurgensen pass, St. Louis shot to a 16-0 lead in the game's first 17 minutes before Washington came back. A Jurgensen touchdown toss of two yards edged the Redskins to 16-10 at halftime and Washington closed to 16-13 before Hart applied the clincher with his accurate passing.

Roger Wehrli slipped in front of Jurgensen's first pass, intended for Charley Taylor, and raced 53 yards down the sidelines for a 6-0 St. Louis lead with the game only moments old.

Jim Bakken kicked a 47-yard field goal to boost St. Louis into a 9-0 advantage seven minutes later and Hart found Thomas open behind the Washington secondary for a 16-0 cushion on a 52-yard gain.

Only then did Washington awaken, moving 96 yards in 10 plays, capped by Jurgensen's pass to Larry Brown at the close of the first half. Mark Moseley booted a 34-yard field goal for the Redskins five minutes into the third quarter, then Hart passed 17 yards to Anderson for a 23-13 St. Louis lead.

The game's final score came with 8:47 left when the 40-year-old Jurgensen found Brown again in the end zone from the Cardinal 13.

Lawrence McCutcheon ran for two touchdowns in a 31-second span, giving the Rams their victory over the Jets. McCutcheon rushed for 139 yards, 23 of them on a burst around the left side of the New York line for a touchdown eight seconds into the final quarter, tying the score at 13-13.

Two plays later, cornerback Charlie Stukes intercepted a Joe Namath pass and ran it 41 yards to the New York one. On the next play, McCutcheon slammed over for the Rams' winning score.

Substitute Larry Watkins ran one yard for a touchdown and John Leybold kicked three field goals, leading Buffalo over Chicago. Jim Plunkett hit tight end Bob Windsor with a 10-yard scoring pass with three seconds to play, giving the Patriots their victory over the Vikings.

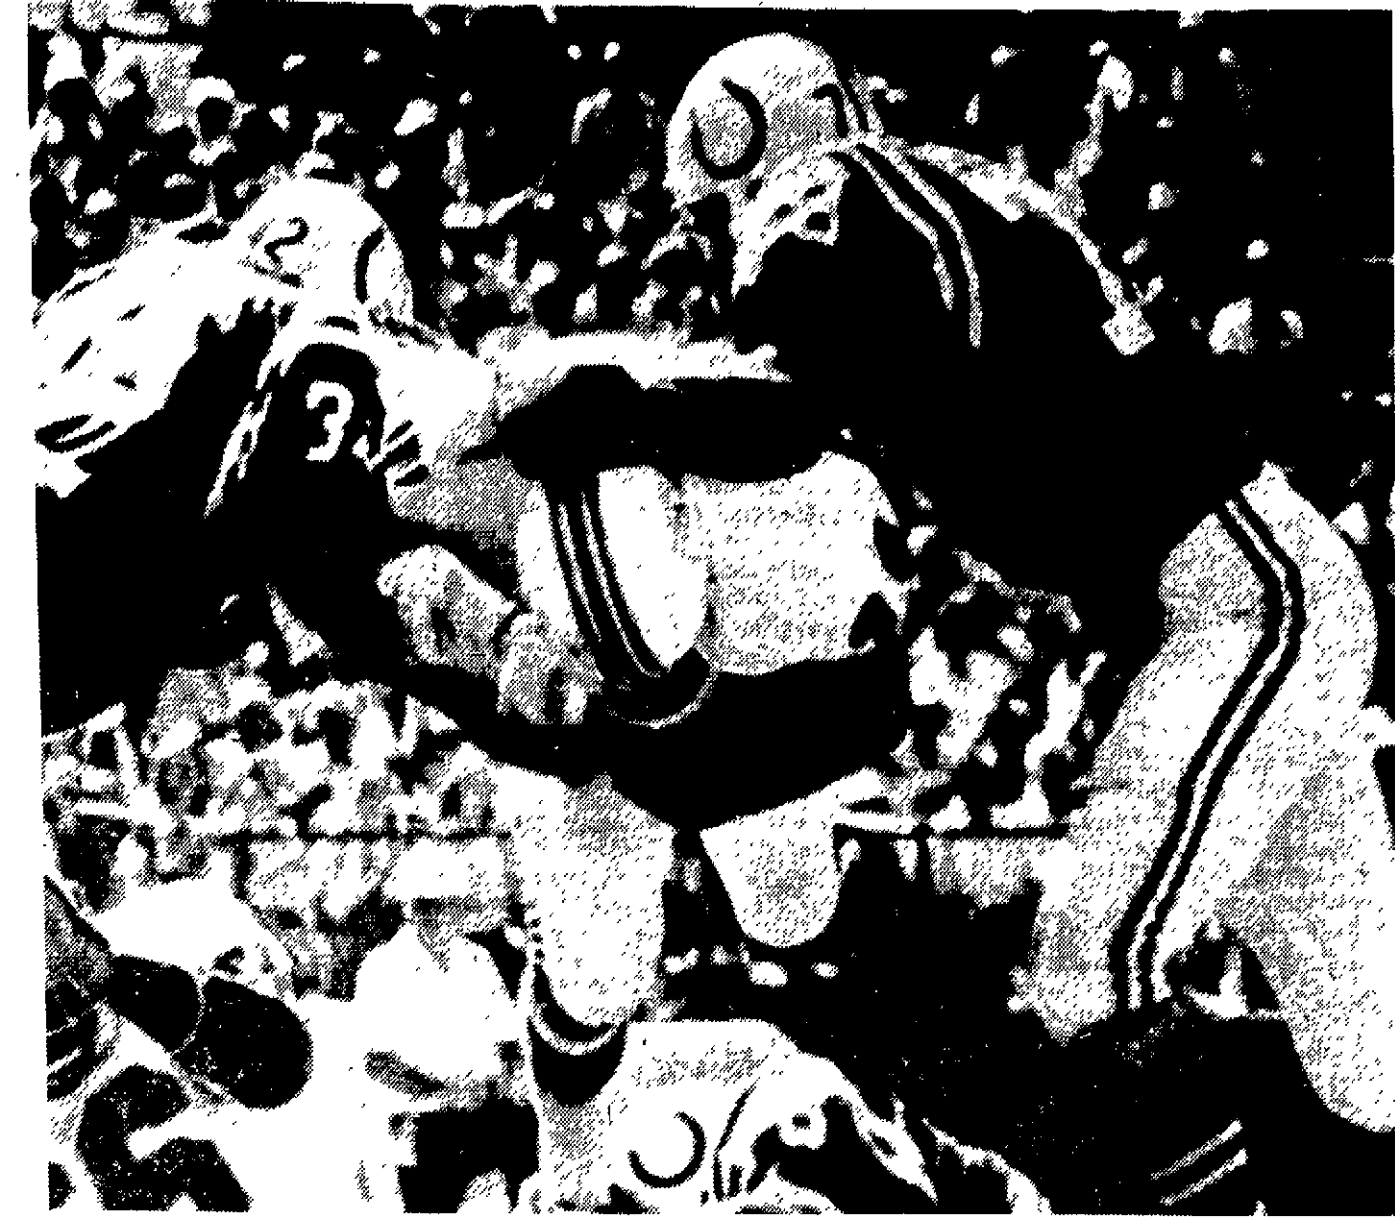

Benny Malone and Don Nottingham took charge of Miami's crippled running attack in the second half to help the Dolphins beat Baltimore, which lost its sixth game in seven this year.

Oakland turned two late San Francisco fumbles into touchdowns, with rookie Harold Harris running 40 yards to score on one recovery. Jesse Phillips swept over from four yards out with 1:10 left to give New Orleans its victory over Philadelphia.

Dan Pastorini's passes shredded Cincinnati's defense as Houston, a loser in 32 of the last 35 games, pounced on every Bengal mistake to score a stunning upset.

Brian Sipe, who entered the game in the fourth quarter, scored two touchdowns to lead Cleveland to a comeback victory over Denver. Drew Pearson, the National Football League's leading receiver, caught one touchdown pass and threw another to pace the Cowboys over the Giants.

Errol Mann kicked a 41-yard field goal with nine seconds left led Detroit over Green Bay. Len Dawson combined with Woody Green on a 67-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter as Kansas City broke a 14-14 tie to beat San Diego.

Now Ali-Foreman Long Wait Begins

NSELE, Zaire (UPI) — Now the long wait begins.

For all intents and purposes, George Foreman and Muhammad Ali have completed their training chores for their $30 million title fight and now await their entry into the ring in Kinshasa at 4 a.m. Wednesday (10 p.m. EST Tuesday).

The two men stepped on the scales Saturday shortly before midnight in a weigh-in unique in the annals of boxing. About 10,000 Zairians had a ball, reacting gleefully to Ali's antics and giving Foreman the warmest reception he has yet enjoyed here. That Ali weighed 216 1/2 pounds and Foreman 220 was of minor importance to them, for in fact, they didn't know what either man scaled. There was no public address notification for them.

On Monday, commission doctors examined both fighters and found them healthy, even though Muhammad was having a trifle of difficulty with a hoarse throat—brought on, no doubt, by his endless speechifying.

It is now that Ali and his trainer, Angelo Dundee, and Foreman and his man Dick Sadler, go through their respective battle plans, discussing endlessly the opportunities to watch for, the pitfalls to be avoided.

For it is a mistake to think that this fight for the heavy-weight championship is merely a matter of Ali's aging skills against the brute power of the 26-year-old Foreman.

As the last two days and the hours dwindle down, here is one opinion on how the fight may progress.

Ali's plus factors are speed, experience, discipline, and confidence.

Foreman's plus factors are power, age, surprising mobility for a man his size, and a quiet but intense pride.

If the fight ends quickly, it will be because Foreman is able to break through with one devastating attack, grabbing Ali or cutting off the dancing master and bludgeoning him to the canvas.

Ali can avert such disaster by shedding for the bout a few of the 32 years he carries and revert for those initial four or five rounds to the "float like a butterfly, sting like a bee" strategy that stopped Sonny Liston 10 1/2 years ago.

Those initial rounds can prove a test for Foreman.

In 12 fights since May 10, 1971, the champion has never had to go more than four rounds to put away his man.

What he will do, how he will react as the rounds go by, has been the biggest concentration point for Ali and Dundee. It is at this juncture where experience can give the edge to Ali, who has been over the full distance in his last five fights, each of which were for 12 rounds.

In order to fend off Foreman in the early going, Ali must dance on his toes, whirling jabs, moving into and out of George's range at top speed. Ali has what may be a boon in that. Although both men are 6-foot-3, Muhammad has an inch and a half longer reach.

But inevitably, Ali must come down off his toes. It is at this juncture that Ali must sharpen his punches, striving for more power in his jabs and, yes, conceivably cutting Foreman.

Foreman's mental attitude in rounds five through 10 will be vital. He has said in his soft-spoken manner that he is not concerned about Ali's dancing or fleeing tactics. He has summed up his outlook quite simply.

"I'm gonna hit him." To George, that is all that is needed, first round or last. If, however, he continually fails to "hit" Ali, and instead has been stung over and over again by Ali's "bee stings," how will he meet the problem?

The opinion offered here is that Foreman will not be up to that challenge, that the bedlam will get to him, that he will be badly cut and befuddled, and go down in the 10th round.

But should he survive, then they go the full 15.

Ali's speed will be gone. George will be equally worn down and losing power. Ali could, on pride alone, stay up, or if down, get up again to the final bell, but the decision would go to Foreman.

Columbus, Burke Promoted

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Because of all the No. 1 stumping between Omaha Benson and Lincoln East, two very good Class A football teams were shoved out of the state-wide spotlight last week.

The first is Columbus, which ran its record to 6-0 with another come-from-behind victory, 28-14, over Fremont. The fourth-rated Discoverers are now set for the Big 10 Conference playoff Nov. 15 against North Platte.

The second "forgotten team" is Omaha Burke, which advances to the No. 5 spot in this week's Sunday Journal and Star Class A ratings.

Since a rather decisive 32-7 season-opening loss to top-ranked Omaha Benson, Burke has won six of its last seven games.

A win Friday night over Omaha Roncalli will give Burke another crack at Benson as the American division representative in the Metro Conference playoff set for Nov. 8.

Benson has clinched a spot in the playoff, although the powerful Bunnies face a rugged assignment Thursday night at National division rival Council Bluffs (la.) Abraham Lincoln (6-2).

Benson has a 5-0 record in its division. Creighton Prep, which outlasted Bellevue 21-17 last week, and Council Bluffs AL are tied for second in the division with 3-2 records.

So win or lose Thursday night, Benson qualifies for the playoff.

That's not the case with Burke, however. Burke and 10th-ranked Omaha Westside are tied for the American division lead with 5-1 records.

Should Burke stumble against Roncalli and Westside turn back ninth-ranked Omaha Ryan Friday night, Westside will qualify for the Metro playoff.

Ryan and Council Bluffs Thomas Jefferson are tied for third and fourth in the American division with 4-2 records behind Burke and Westside.

Burke would rate the edge over defending Metro champion Westside for the playoff if the likely tie develops because it won the head-to-head matchup, 13-10, two weeks ago.

The Big 10 and Metro are the only two Class A leagues with divisional alignments and playoffs. Columbus also has clinched the Apollo Conference championship.

Second-rated Lincoln East is in line to win a pair of conference titles. The Spartans are 5-0 in the Eastern I-80 with Lincoln High left to play. They're 4-0 in the Trans-Nebraska with remaining conference tests against the Links and North Platte.

Columbus received another fourth-quarter, game-winning touchdown from 5-10, 185-pound second team I-back Greg Wiseman to defeat Fremont and remain unbeaten.

He broke a couple of would-be tacklers for a 20-yard touchdown scamper with 1:45 remaining to give the Discoverers' their eighth win. It was Wiseman's fourth game-winning touchdown in the final quarter this season.

'Buffs Scout Makes NU-OU Comparisons

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Bob McConnell isn't about to be drawn into any football comparisons between Nebraska and Oklahoma.

"I wouldn't want to even guess what the score will be when those two play," said Colorado's chief scout who watched Nebraska outlast Oklahoma State, 7-3, Saturday at Memorial Stadium.

"Oklahoma's a lot more explosive offensively, but they're two different kinds of teams," he said. "OU is a grind-it-out team that wears you down. Nebraska likes to put it (the football) in the air."

"I will say that Joe Washington (Sooners' all-American candidate) is a fantastic athlete. He does it all for them."

McConnell, who is in his second year at Colorado as freshman offensive line coach, watched Oklahoma trounce the Buffaloes, 49-14, on Oct. 29 at Boulder. That game, coupled with a 30-24 loss last Saturday at Missouri, sidetracked CU somewhat on its "adjustment operation" to new head coach Bill Mallory.

"We were adjusting to Mallory's system at LSU (a 42-14 loss) and Michigan (a 31-0 setback). But then we got adjusted and scored three straight wins before meeting Oklahoma and Missouri. We hope we can bounce back and keep it going from those three wins."

Nebraska, which meets Colorado this Saturday at Boulder's Folsom Field, impressed McConnell despite only scoring one touchdown against a defensive-minded Cowboy squad.

"They're (Nebraska) very tough, aggressive and physical," he noted. "I've seen them on film (against Missouri and Wisconsin) and this was the first time I've seen them in person. They have a strong, solid defense and the offense likes to throw the ball."

"You usually think of Nebraska as a throwing team with David Humm at quarterback, but they have a solid running game with O'Leary (John) and Davis (Tony). You have to respect their running game and that's what makes them so tough offensively."

"I didn't find any weaknesses with them," he noted.

While McConnell said Colorado should benefit from playing in Boulder, Nebraska has had great success in recent years against CU. The Cornhuskers have won the last six meetings and haven't lost in Boulder since a 19-6 loss in 1960.

Nevertheless, CU has several offensive performers who can help it better its 3-4 record.

— Billy Waddy, a sophomore tailback who earned Big Eight offensive freshman player honors last season. Despite being held to 17 yards by Missouri, Waddy has already rushed for 578 yards to easily qualify among the league's top 10 rushers.

— Dave Logan, a junior wingback, who ranked fourth in the Big Eight in pass receptions after six games.

— Terry Kunz, a junior fullback, who has replaced Bo Matthews as the power back for CU. Despite spraining an ankle in a 24-21 victory over Wisconsin and missing a 28-27 win over Air Force, Kunz scored a touchdown against Missouri.

Defensively, the Buffaloes have had troubles. "We're struggling defensively," noted McConnell. "Against LSU and Michigan we didn't adjust well, but each week we're getting better. We get more experienced each week and that's helping us."

"Against Oklahoma, the Sooners just had their best day. If they can be any better than that offensively, I'd hate to see it," he added.

After the first six games, the Buffs ranked last in the Big Eight statistics in rushing defense, total defense and scoring defense.

That probably won't influence Nebraska in its preparations for the Buffaloes, McConnell said.

"I haven't seen them (Huskies) do anything different from what they did in other games," he said. "They'll stay with the things they do best. They don't make mistakes and that's why they're a good football team."

College Powerhouses Frolic In Blasting Opponents

By The Associated Press

The ranks of college football powerhouses swelled from two to five over the weekend as Michigan, Alabama and Auburn added impressive victories to the accustomed weekly ones of Ohio State and Oklahoma.

Michigan's Bo Schembechler summed it up for his fellow coaches who are shooting for the national championship:

"This is just what we needed to propel us into the final weeks of the season—we needed to blow someone out," Schembechler said after his third-ranked Wolverines walloped Minnesota 49-0.

No. 1-rated Ohio State buried Northwestern 55-7 as Archie Griffin ran for 173 yards on 19 carries and tied the all-time college record of rushing for 100 yards or more in 17 consecutive regular-season games set by former Oklahoma Heisman trophy-winner Steve Owens.

Quarterback Steve Davis and halfback Joe Washington led explosive Oklahoma to a 35-0 halftime budge over Kansas State and the Sooners, runners-up to Ohio State in The Associated Press ratings, demolished Kansas State 63-0, their second triumph this season by that score.

Gil Chapman scored twice and Rob Lytle and Gordon Bell combined for 289 yards on the ground in leading Michigan to its seventh consecutive Little Brown Jug triumph over Minnesota.

Robert Fraley and Jack O'Rear subbed nicely for two injured players and led fourth-ranked Alabama to a 41-3 rout of Texas Christian while Phil Gargis passed for two scores and ran for another as No. 5 Auburn swatted Florida State 38-6.

The list of decisive triumphs continued through the No. 14 spot in the ratings as sixth-ranked Southern California bopped Oregon State 31-10, No. 7 Notre Dame flattened Miami of Florida 38-7 and No. 8 Texas

A&M stifled Baylor 20-0.

But it wasn't a piece of cake for all the ranking teams. Feat-or-famine Nebraska, rated ninth, needed a fumble recovery at its own one-yard line and an interception at the 14 in the final 3 1/2 minutes to hold off Oklahoma State 7-3.

Tenth-ranked Penn State turned a blocked field goal attempt into a lucky touchdown and went on to defeat West Virginia 21-12. And No. 11 Texas Tech blocked a punt in the final period that led to the winning touchdown in a 20-17 victory over Southern Methodist.

Monte Kiffin, Nebraska's defensive coordinator, summed it up for the close-call brigade. "The only statistic that counts is the final score," he said.

Besides those teams that had to struggle to win, four members of the Second Ten went down to defeat—North Carolina State, Arizona, Tulane and California.

Texas, ranked 13th, trounced Rice 27-6 and No. 14 Arizona

State pounded New Mexico 41-7. In the only meeting of ranked teams, No. 15 Maryland trimmed No. 17 N. C. State 20-10 and took a commanding lead in the Atlantic Coast Conference race.

Meanwhile, No. 16 Arizona was swamped by Brigham Young 37-13 as Gary Sheide threw for five touchdowns and the BYU defense intercepted five passes. And Rudy Allen, a diabetic, led Georgia Tech to three first-half scores before being forced out of the game by his illness and the Yellow Jackets went on to defeat previously unbeaten Tulane 27-7.

Rounding out the Top Twenty, Rob Carpenter ran for 181 yards and three touchdowns as No. 19 Miami of Ohio downed Toledo 38-22 but No. 20 California fell to UCLA 28-3 as Bruin quarterback John Scarlata threw a long scoring pass and ran for another touchdown in the first half before suffering a broken ankle.

In addition to equaling Owens' record for consecutive 100-yard games, Ohio State's Griffin became the first Buckeye to rush for more than 1,000 yards in two successive seasons. He hit the 100-yard plateau in the first half and scored on an 11-yard run before leaving the contest midway through the third period.

"Archie easily could have had 200 yards if I had kept him in," said Coach Woody Hayes.

The Buckeyes rolled up 441 rushing yards and completed six of seven passes for 105 more.

"Their defense isn't up to their offense, but their offense is tremendously explosive," said Northwestern's John Pont.

Hayes agreed. "Our defense is all banged up," he said. "But our offense sure controlled the ball. Our No. 1 offensive unit was stopped only once and that was on an interception."

Oklahoma's, Washington, playing only the first half, jetted for 113 yards on 17 carries against Kansas State as the Sooners breezed to their 15 victory in a row and 24th consecutive game without a loss.

"Those guys demoralize you," raved K-State's Vince Gibson. "Oklahoma is the best team I've ever seen—ever!"

Michigan, annoyed by insinuations that they were ranked too high, proved otherwise against Minnesota.

"Michigan is a good team," said Gopher Coach Cal Stoll. "You can't compare them to Ohio State. That will be decided in November. They block well and tackle well, and that's the game of football."

Fraley passed for two touchdowns and scored one and O'Rear ran for one and passed for another in Alabama's rout of TCU. Willie Shelby paced a 296-yard ground assault with 88 yards on only six carries.

"Everything was in our favor—the heat and our numbers," said Bear Bryant, who sent 69 players into action.

Auburn led Florida State by only 7-6 at halftime but in the third period the Tigers got an eight-yard run from Rick Neel and a 43-yard pass from Gargis to Thomas Gosson. In the final quarter, Gargis ran 16 yards to score and backup quarterback Chris Vaccarella galloped 14 for another TD.

Southern Cal trailed Oregon State 10-0 in the second period but Anthony Davis romped for 135 yards and two touchdowns and the Trojans finally saw their passing game come to life as Pat Haden threw six times to Johnny McKay for 100 yards, including a 38-yard scoring strike.

Davis' two scores gave him 41 career touchdowns, a Pacific-8 Conference record.

Tom Clements passed for two scores and ran for another, engineering five first-half touchdown drives in all, as Notre Dame built a 38-0 lead and smashed Miami.

Cal Roaches scored on a teammate's miscue and set up a field goal with a pass reception in Texas A&M's blanking of Baylor.

Roaches scored the Aggies' first touchdown when he grabbed Bubba Bean's fumble, and sprinted 56 yards to score in the first quarter.

Nebraska unleashed a 79-yard drive in the third period, with Tony Davis scoring from four yards out, and held on to nip Oklahoma State.

A big break helped Penn State build an insurmountable 21-6 lead over West Virginia. In the third period, John Reihner's 27-yard field goal attempt was blocked but the bounding ball hit the foot of a West Virginia player in the end zone and Ron Codet alertly recovered for a Penn State touchdown.

"We made a great play and smelled like a rose, then came out in the end smelling bad," moaned WVU's Bobby Bowden. "The official ruled that we touched the ball after the block and my boy told me he did touch it so the call was good by the official."

TIME OUT

By Steve Gillispie
Star Sports Writer

Midland May Go Unbeaten

With Wayne State forfeiting a 22-15 win over Midland because of an ineligible player, the Warriors from Fremont have an excellent chance to finish the season undefeated.

The only unbeaten Midland teams were the "Little Giants" of 1941 (9-0) and the 1892 squad (1-0), if the last team's schedule can be called a season.

A perfect season for the Warriors would not only give them the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference title, but could also qualify them for the NAIA playoffs.

Most of the credit for Midland's success can be directly traced to the school hiring Don Watchorn as head football coach and athletic director.

Watchorn left a relatively secure position with UNO to take over a losing football program at the Fremont school.

Watchorn was the chairman of the department of health, physical education and recreation plus chief assistant football coach and assistant track coach at UNO.

So far at Midland Watchorn has produced winning football teams and upgraded other sports as athletic director. Both the Warrior basketball and wrestling teams are expected to contend for NIAC titles this year.

One of the first good moves Watchorn made was to hire Dan Knight as wrestling coach and assistant football coach from North Bend High School. Other moves that have produced good results have been recruiting a better quality athlete in all sports.

Former Chadron State football coach Glenn Brady was the subject of a feature article in the Oct. 26 Sports News on page 44.

Unusual Coaching Method

Brady, whose 1972 Chadron State team was 8-2, has adopted a policy of coaching University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee football team from the press box over the telephone.

According to the article, Brady's idea isn't new and he learned of it in 1957 when he was a graduate assistant at LSU, where he was an acting assistant coach for the University Laboratory School, a high school similar to the former Lincoln University High.

The system must work for Brady, who's 36 because he has never been with a losing program, although his team this year is headed for a losing season.

There is a good reason why attendance at the Kansas City-Omaha Kings basketball games in Omaha this year has been down and will probably continue to follow that trend, with the exception of the Milwaukee Bucks' and Boston Celtics' games.

It's general knowledge among the sport writers and sportscasters, who cover the Kings, that this will more than likely be the last season the team will play any regular season games in Omaha.

With the completion of the new Kemper Sports Arena in Kansas City, the Kings will probably be able to schedule all of their home games there.

The official comment on such a move from most team officials is "no comment," but one club official has admitted Omaha will be out next year. Of course he refuses to permit his name to be used, not wanting to get in trouble with higher management.

Of course the reason most team officials won't admit to the Kings playing their home games in Kansas City next year, is that such an announcement would hurt this year's attendance in Omaha.

N'SELE, Zaire (UPI) — From an Ali-Foreman notebook: A pair of dollar boxing shoes may prove of supreme importance. That's the price of the shoes Muhammad Ali has been using in training—and he has worn the tips all the way down in his never-ending dancing drills.

So thin have the tips become that one day Ali slipped on them and almost fell. He'll have new ones on Wednesday.

When George Foreman began his amateur boxing with the Job Corps, sports pages in Houston seeing AAU results were puzzled as to who "George Foreman, Houston, Tex." was. It was only when he began the meteoric rise that reporters there said: Oh that George Foreman.

He has been a bit of a problem teenager but had decided to seek a new life in the Job Corps. When he came home in triumph to his native city, he got a plaque from the policeman who had spent so much time chasing him when he was a kid.

The highway from Kinshasa to here has many political posters, some praising president Mobutu Sese Seko, some exhorting work and peace and sacrifice, and some making observations on the fight. One reads: "The Foreman-Ali fight is not a war between two enemies but a sport between two friends."

American reporters commented on the politeness and order 10,000 Zairians showed at Saturday's weigh-in. "They sure aren't like what we get to see at some of the baseball and football games back home," was one observation.

Blasts Said One Means

NEW YORK (AP) — A left-wing leader of the Puerto Rican independence movement said Sunday that terrorist bombings like those set off at five locations in Manhattan were one way of fighting for independence.

"I don't know whether these bombs reported in the press were part of this diverse struggle," said Juan Mari Bras, secretary general of the Puerto Rican Socialist party.

Bras, attending a "Puerto Rican Solidarity Day Rally" at Madison Square Garden here, added, "There is a diversity of forms and means by which the Puerto Rican people struggle for independence and national liberation. This is one of the means."

About 15,000 persons, including activists Angela Davis, Jane Fonda and Russell Means, attended the four-hour rally. There were no incidents, and police said a normal complement of officers was on duty outside.

The audience was enthusiastic, raising clenched fists and occasionally interrupting the speakers with political slogans chanted in Spanish, but they booed Angela Davis when she mentioned "my party, the Communist party."

Disavowed by the Puerto Rican Independence party on the Caribbean island, the rally was sponsored by an American committee and dedicated to five Puerto Ricans serving jail sentences for the 1950 attempted assassination of President Truman and the 1954 shooting of five congressmen.

The release of those five prisoners was among the demands of a group calling itself the Armed Forces of Puerto Rican Liberation — FALN — which assumed responsibility for Saturday's bombings. No one was killed or injured in the blasts.

In a letter to The Associated Press, the self-proclaimed terrorists expressed support for the rally, but promoters of the event denied any connection with the blasts.

Oil Spill Off Ireland Now Under Control

Cork, Ireland (UPI) — A vast mop-up operation off Ireland's southwest coast Sunday brought under control the spread of a 22-mile oil slick which ruined fishing, fouled beaches and threatened holiday resorts.

"The situation is now under control for the first time," a Cork County official said.

West Cork pollution officer Liam Mullins told newsmen "the worst seems to be over."

"If no major portion of the spillage lies undiscovered on the bay's 250 square miles of water, the situation is now under control," Mullins said.

The crude oil, estimated at nearly 250,000 gallons, spilled from the Gulf Oil terminal at Whiddy Island in Bantry Bay Tuesday when the 80,000-ton tanker Universal Leader was docked.

Oil Spill Off Ireland Now Under Control

Company officials first said only 8,000 gallons spilled, but coastal fishermen began reporting a mass of black sludge fouling their nets and fishing grounds in the 250-square-mile bay.

The extent of the spill overwhelmed an oil pollution disaster plan drawn up when Gulf opened its terminal on Whiddy Island five years ago.

"Our plans were completely inadequate to deal with a disaster of this scope," a local official said.

The spill touched off angry local demands for Gulf Oil to bear the full cost of the cleanup and to pay compensation to fishermen in the area.

"We are demanding full compensation for our losses," a spokesman for the fishermen's association said.

All-Ives Concert Performed At NU

By Richard Grace
The University of Nebraska Symphony Orchestra performed an all-Ives concert Sunday afternoon in Kimball Hall. Under the competent leadership of conductor Emanuel Wishnow, the orchestra played "Three Places in New England" and Symphony No. 1 in D Minor.

The concert was the same program the University Orchestra will play at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

This is indeed a fine honor for both NU and the orchestra and judging from the high-caliber performance Sunday afternoon, the orchestra should successfully realize its capabilities in Washington on November 16.

The orchestra probably has the most personnel of recent years and the size difference is in the large string section. Although the orchestra is young and this is the first concert of the season, the orchestra gave notice it has the potential to develop into one of the better student orchestras at NU.

The two Charles Ives compositions are entirely different in style and content. The symphony was written during Ives' student years at Yale. During those times, as would be expected, Ives was occupied with learning orchestration and developing an original style. It is not unusual, therefore, that the music resembles a hodgepodge of the reigning Romantic music of the time.

From the complete divergence between the two pieces it is difficult to imagine how Ives moved on to his original and more radical style of composition in the "Three Places in New England." The two works have little in common.

Perhaps this could be the main reason Ives left the music field for a very prosperous insurance career. American music of the 1890's was not of the composer's liking. He even made attempts to get his music published after he left Yale, but was frustrated by the publishers because his music was rejected as being too radical.

"Three Places in New England" was started some five years after the symphony and represents the time in Ives' life when he could work to develop his own musical ideas because the art of composition was now a sideline and not a monetary necessity.

Armed Robbery Nets $75 For Duo At Husker Popper

Approximately $75 was taken in an armed robbery at the Husker Popper at 33rd and Cornhusker Sunday night.

Police said a man and a woman entered the business and the man pulled out a small caliber handgun and demanded the money from the cash register.

Police said the woman assured the clerks they would not be hurt and took the money and put it in her pocket.

A Lincoln couple was picked up by police, but later released when witnesses said they were not the robbers.

The couple was arrested after a witness observed their car which had pulled out of the popper parking lot just after the robbery and followed it to 27th where he got the car license number.

Police found the couple's address through the license number and picked them up.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked squares give you.
